PREFACE

The Institute feels privileged to bring out the publication “Bhagavadgītā Bibliography Volume I” under Smt. Suryakumari Dwarakadas Endowment.

The Bhagavadgītā Bibliography project was started by Dr. V. Raghavan in 1972. Under his able guidance Smt. Suryakumari Dwarakadas, a keen student of Sanskrit, collected the bibliographical details on the Bhagavadgītā. The chequered growth of the Institute affected the progress of the project; however, scholars at the Institute kept on collecting details on the project and Smt. Suryakumari continued working on her own. On her demise in 1990, Dr. S.S. Janaki, then Director of the Institute, with the support of the family members of Mrs. Suryakumari took efforts to revive the project. An endowment in the name of Smt. Suryakumari Dwarakadas was created at the Institute by her family members to complete the project.

Dr. C.S. Sundaram, Retd. Reader, University of Madras who has a long record of devoted service in the field of Sanskrit studies, working as Honorary Professor at the Institute took upon himself the difficult task of completing this project. His vast experience in the New Catalogus Catalogorum of the Department of Sanskrit, University of Madras and his untiring efforts have resulted in the publication of this first section of the project. Dr. C.S. Sundaram has scrutinised, classified and arranged the already available material collected by Smt. Suryakumari and has also added some more valuable information on the subject.

This monograph forms only the first part of the project, covering the details regarding the manuscripts available in various parts of India. The second part consisting of the bibliographical details of the printed texts, studies and articles pertaining to the Bhagavadgītā will be published soon.

This book has been brought out with the finances made available from Smt. Suryakumari Dwarakadas Endowment. The Institute is beholden to the family members for this help.

The book contains a write - up about Smt. Suryakumari by her son Mr. Suresh.

The Institute is also thankful to Dr. C.S. Sundaram who took all pains to complete this project.

Ms. Vignesha Printers are to be thanked for the neat printing and nice get-up.

Smt. SURYAKUMARI DWARAKADAS

Suryakumari was born on 22nd December, 1922 in Pune in a business family with good value systems. From her childhood she imbibed social responsibilities and respect for tradition and education.

She pursued her higher studies in Madras obtaining her B.A. (Economics) degree from Nagpur University as a private candidate. With the motivation of Dr.V.Raghavan, a stalwart in Sanskrit field and the support and encouragement of Dwarakadas, her husband (himself a non-matriculate but a successful corporate executive), she completed her M.A. (Sanskrit) degree from Presidency College, Madras as a full time student, though she was already a mother of five children who were studying in Colleges and Schools at that time. She pursued her passion for Sanskrit by learning Vedas, Upanishads and other texts with the help of traditional scholars at Mylapore.

She worked as Lecturer in Sanskrit at the S.I.E.T. Women's College, Madras for more than a decade. She was also privileged to be guided by Dr.V.Raghavan in the field of Sanskritic studies. Under his guidance she devoted her time to work at the Kuppuswami Sastri Research Institute, the Samskrita Ranga and the Sanskrit Academy (Secretary, 1975-77), Madras. She also assisted Dr.Raghavan in many of his research projects and publications.

Smt.Suryakumari Dwarakadas actively participated in Sanskrit plays. She was a linguist with strong foundation in Sanskrit . She knew Marathi, Gujarathi, Hindi, Tamil, Telugu and English. She took immense pleasure in teaching Bhagavad Gita to the students of Sri Suddhadvaita Vidyalaya . She conducted Gita Pathasala in that school for more than two decades. She also participated in the activities of Srinivasa Gandhi Nilayam, Madras engaged in the upliftment of the under privileged women. She has travelled widely within India and also visited U.S.A. and Europe.

Under the guidance of Dr.Raghavan she started compiling information on Bhagavad Gita from different parts of India. On the suggestion of Dr.S.S.Janaki, her family members decided to create an Endowment in her name at the Institute for the publication of the collected materials on the Bhagavad Gita.

Under the Smt. Suryakumari Dwarakadas Endowment created by her family members, the K.S.R.Institute has also been conducting inter-school Bhagavad Gita Recitation competition every year.

INTRODUCTION

The Bhagavadgītā Bibliography was undertaken by Dr.V.Raghavan as a project under the auspices of the K.S.R.Institute. This was an offshoot of the Gītā exhibition organised under this Research Institute in 1950. Several Universities in India, Government Institutions as also private individuals wholeheartedly supported this and sent their valuable collections of editions and translations of the Gītā and also manuscripts of Gītā. It was a grand success.

Realising the everlasting value of this ennobling treatise, the Bhagavadgītā, this project of Bibliography of Gītā was started. This project is of immense value for not only research scholars but also to others interested in understanding the gems embedded in the Gītā. The project consists mainly of two parts viz. (I) references to manuscripts available in various libraries in and outside India (II) printed editions, studies and translations.

Mrs.Suryakumari Dwarakadas was first assigned the task of compiling information for this project under the guidance of Dr.V.Raghavan. She took her M.A. Degree in Sanskrit from the Presidency college. She knew several languages - Hindi, Marathi, Telugu, Tamil and English besides Gujarathi, her mother tongue. The project commenced on the 15th of April 1973. In response to an appeal from Dr.V.Raghavan, Dr.C.P.Ramaswami Iyer's foundation gave a grant of Rs.150/- p.m. for two years.

This project consisted of three stages mainly (1) Collecting the references to the manuscripts of Gītā (2) References to printed editions (3) Studies, articles on Gītā and reviews of the editions and studies on Gītā from various journals.

Mrs.Suryakumari meticulously compiled references to the manuscripts available in India and outside with the help of the slips gathered by the New Catalogus Catalogorum section of the Sanskrit Department of the University of Madras.

Secondly the references to the printed editions of the Gītā were gathered by her visiting several libraries and research institutes in Chennai such as Adyar Library, Connemara Library, University Library (Philosophy Dept.), Cosmopolitan Library and Ramakrishna Math Centenary Library.

As a third step, she compiled and took brief notes of the studies on Gītā and also references to articles and reviews from various Indological journals like Indian Historical Quarterly, Vedanta Kesari, Brahma Vidya, Proceedings of the All India Oriental Conference and others.

In addition to this she visited the University of Poona, the L.D.Institute of Indology, Ahmedabad and a few other centres in Bombay, Gujarat, and compiled information on the studies of Gītā which were mainly in Marathi and Gujarathi.

The sudden demise of Mrs.Suryakumari in the year 1990 caused a gap in the compilation of the Bibliography.

Realising the importance of this project especially for the New Catalogus Catalogorum section of the Sanskrit Department, University of Madras and for research scholars, the K.S.R.Institute decided to resume the work. The work was once again undertaken with the funds offered by the family members of Mrs.Suryakumari.

Resumed thus, the already collected material had to be revised, compiled, and arranged properly as the time gap had caused some distortion in the gathered material. Moreover, the material already gathered, especially the references to manuscripts had to be checked with the new Descriptive Catalogues published since then, especially from Sanskrit College, Benares, Oriental Research Institute, Mysore, Adyar Library and Research Centre, Govt. Oriental Manuscripts Library, Madras. The information on Gītā entries in the New Catalogus Catalogorum Department remaining only in slips, had to be verified with the original catalogues especially Aufrecht's Catalogus Catalogorum and the Descriptive Catalogues and details from them had to be added. Bibliographies and Histories of Literature relating to different schools of Vedānta had also to be checked for information about the authorship of the various commentaries. The Introduction to a few editions of Gītā contained also details about the authors of various commentaries and other related information. These had to be added under the various authors.

A word about the manuscript references : They are either in palm-leaf or paper. Several illustrated manuscripts are available in Oriental Institute at Baroda. There is also an 'illuminated' manuscript in the same library. Largest collections are found in Anandasrama, Pune; Oriental Institute, Baroda; Bharatiya Itihasak Samsodhan Mandal, Pune; Bhandarkar Oriental Research Institute, Pune; Govt. Oriental Manuscripts Library, Madras; Sanskrit College, Benares; Travancore University, Trivandrum; The Adyar Library, Madras; Royal Asiatic Society of Bengal, Calcutta; Tanjore Maharaja Serfoji's Saraswathi Mahal Manuscripts Library, Tanjore; Oriental Research Institute, Mysore.

Different types of scripts have been used in the manuscripts. Most of the manuscripts from southern region are in Nāgarī, Telugu, Kannada and Malayalam scripts. About six manuscripts (Nos. 1997, 2001 etc.) in the Govt. Ori. Mss. Library, Madras and one in the Tanjore Saraswathi Mahal library (TD. 8794), are found written in Nandināgarī script. Udaipur Ptd. Catalogue records that a manuscript membered 1357 is in Bengali script and two manuscripts from Bhandarkar Oriental Research Institute, Poona (423 and 424 of 1875-76) are in Śāradā Script. One of the manuscripts used for editing the Sarvatobhadra commentary has been recorded to be in the Devanāgarī of the Kashmir region (IO.2525-3271).

In the present monograph, the details collected from these various sources have been arranged under different heads. The first section gives details regarding the manuscripts having only the text Bhagavadgītā. References to the commentaries which are unspecified are given next. There are more than 50 entries under this category.

Apart from them about 150 identifiable commentaries are also available. The identities of the authors of these commentaries are clear. A few of these commentaries are independent and some others are based on Advaita, Viśiṣṭādvaita, Dvaita, Vallabha and Nimbārka schools of philosophy. They are enlisted under respective heads.

In the analysis of these commentaries and the identification of the authors, a few problems had to be faced. For example, the identity of Rāmānanda, Rāmānanda Sarasvatī and authors bearing the same name had to be checked with the Descriptive Catalogues and properly placed. Similarly the commentaries, Arthasaṅgraha of Yāmuna and the Rakṣā on it by Deśika had to be clearly established. The two commentaries by Ānandatīrtha of the Dvaita school and the two super commentaries on these by Jayatīrtha posed some problem. B.N.K. Sarma in his History of Dvaita Literature has given details about these authors and commentaries. The manuscripts material had, even then, to be properly sifted and placed under these authors, especially Jayatīrtha. On the commentaries of Vallabha school an informative article written in the Annals of Bhandarkar Oriental Research Institute and the Introduction to the edition of the commentary, Amṛtataraṅgiṇī were of considerable help.

Of these commentaries, taken region wise, Śaṅkarānanda of Tiruvidaimarudur wrote the Gītābhāvaṇṇa. There is a reference to one Nīlakaṇṭha as having written a commentary on Gita. A few of these manuscripts are available in University Library, Trivandrum, Kerala. Annaya Dīkṣita of Tirumala Bukkapatnam from Andhra Pradesh wrote the commentary Gītārthasaṅgraha on the Gītā.

It is interesting to note that a father-in-law and a son-in-law wrote commentaries on the Gītā. Sadānanda Vyāsa, a resident of Rawalpindi wrote a verse commentary on the Gītā, while his son-in-law wrote the commentary Bhāṣyotkarṣadīpikā on Śaṅkara's Bhāṣya. Both of them were staunch followers of the Advaita school of philosophy. Gangaprasada Sastrin of recent times, who probably hailed from the North India wrote a Sanskrit cum Hindi commentary on the Gītā.

In the far Northern-region there were two recensions of the Gītā. One is the Kashmirian recension and other though unnamed can be called as the North-South recension.

On the Kashmiri recension and its extent, while Otto Schrader has dealt with it in a separate booklet, T.R.Cintamani a well-known Mīmāṃsā scholar has also analysed the details about this recension in his Introduction to the edition of Sarvatoḥbhadrā commentary on the Gītā (Madras University Sanskrit Series). Vasugupta, Abhinavagupta, Ānandavardhana and Rāmakaṇṭha have written commentaries on this recension. In the Kashmirian school the doctrine of Jñānakarmasamuccaya is emphasised and commentaries are based upon this doctrine. Lakṣmīdhara is referred to as having written a commentary Lāsi(sa)kī on Gītā. It is said that the commentary of Vasugupta got mixed up with this Lāsikī (see Sarvatobhadra Edition, Intro. p. xxxvii)

Jagaddhara, who wrote a commentary on Mālatīmādhava and who hailed from Kashmir has also to his credit a commentary on the Gītā.

Naiyāyikas, as the names of the commentators suggest, Jagadīśa Tarkālāṅkāra and Jagadīśa Pañcānana have also composed commentaries on the Gītā.

Sūrya Paṇḍita, son of Jñānarāja of Pārtha has written the commentary Paramārthaprapā on the Gītā. Whether he is identical with the author of astronomical works is not clear.

The commentary Śrīnivāsakṛpā of Tirumalayya is the essence of Rāmānuja's commentary in three Ṣaṭkas (Karmayogasāra, Bhakti yoga and the combined postulates of the first 2 Ṣaṭkas)

Liṅgojī Paṇḍita of Kārugāma family and pupil of Viṭṭhalaguru has written the commentary Vyāsabhāvaprakāśikā in three Ṣaṭkas (MT.2294. 5044).

Keśavaśākṣibhagavān has written the Bhāṣyasāṅkṣepa which is an abridgement of Śaṅkara's commentary.

Other commentaries to which references have been given, are those of Pañcola's commentary and the Paiśācabhāṣya of Hanuman. Whether this Hanuman is an eponymous author or not is not clear.

There are references to commentaries by Jinasena and Jineśvara. It is quite interesting to note that these are commentaries by Jains, but one can not be sure about the authorship etc. unless one examines the manuscripts. A commentary in Prakrit is found in Śrīdharasvāmin's name; a manuscript of this is in the Mysore Oriental Institute.

One Venkaṭanātha, different from his namesake of Viśiṣṭādvaita school was a follower of Advaita system. He wrote the commentary Brahmānandagiri on the Gītā, opposing the views of other schools as also those of Madhusūdana, Śrīdhara and the author of Paiśaca Bhāṣya (See Intro. p. ii. of Vanivilas edn.). Bhāskarācārya who is said to be the propounder of the doctrine of Jñānakarmasamuccaya has commented on the Kashmirian recension of the Gītā; the Dvaita writer Jayatīrtha quotes him profusely in his commentaries (see IHQ. IX pp.663-77).

A bird's eye-view of the several commentaries on the Gītā region-wise has been presented above. We shall take a look now as mentioned earlier at the commentaries written on the Gītā according to different schools of Vedānta.

In Advaita, Śaṅkara's Bhāṣya is well-known on which Ānandagiri wrote a commentary. Several independent commentaries were written adapting the views of Śaṅkara by various authors like Venkaṭanātha, Śaṅkarānanda and Dhanapati Sūri. Sadānanda Vyāsa's commentary is in verse form. Dhanapati Sūri's commentary Bhāṣyotkarṣadīpikā as the very name indicates highlights the greatness and importance of Śaṅkara's commentary.

Of the Viśiṣṭādvaita school Yāmūnācārya's commentary Arthasaṅgraha is well known. Vedānta Deśika's super commentary Tātparyacandrikā is on the Rāmānuja Bhāṣya. He also wrote the Arthasaṅgraharakṣā on Yāmūna's commentary. Detailed account of these scholars is given in the book Contribution of Yāmūna to Viśiṣṭādvaita by Dr. M. Narasimhachari.

In the Dvaita school Ānanda Tīrtha or Madhva wrote Bhāṣya and an elaborate commentary Tātparyanirṇaya on the Gītā. Jayatīrtha wrote the commentary Prameyadīpikā on the Bhāṣya and the commentary Nyāyadīpikā on the Tātparyanirṇaya. Based on these two super commentaries other commentaries were also written.

On the commentaries of Vallabha school, a good analysis of the identity of the several authors has been made in the article in the Annals of Bhandarkar Oriental Research Institute (Vol.30) as also in the Hindi Introduction to the edition of Amṛtatarāṅgiṇī Tīkā of Puruṣottama (Sri Vidya Vibhag, Kankarauli).

This introductory analysis will show to the readers, especially the research scholars, the immeasurable treasure of manuscripts on Bhagavadgīta, available in different parts of the world in various forms such as texts, texts with commentaries and super commentaries of various schools of Vedānta. This monograph is only an attempt at gathering such details from specific research centre. It is presented to the world of research with the hope that materials from other sources would also be added in future by interested scholars.

To conclude I am much grateful to Mr. Suresh and his family who have been funding this project and patiently waiting for the publication. I am much obliged to Sri B. Madhavan and Dr. S.S. Janaki who sanctioned the project and gave encouragement. To the staff of KSRI, Dr. V. Kameswari, Dr. K.S. Balasubramanian and Mr. T.V. Vasudeva who have gone through the proof carefully, made the necessary alterations and checked the order of the entries and other details, I express my sincere gratitude.

I place on record my gratitude to the New Catalogus Catalogorum section of the University of Madras, the authorities of the Adyar Library, the K.S.R. Institute for permitting me to go through the catalogue materials as also the consolidated slips of the Gītā.
